

Choir Tours Midwest

Augustana College's Concert Choir, just returned from its 53rd annual tour, will present its home concert at 3:00 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 11, at First Lutheran Church. The program will be the same as that performed at 14 sites during the tour.

Prof. Olaf G. Malmin will conduct the 67-voice mixed ensemble in a four part program. The first section will include compositions by Palestrina, Mendelssohn, Heinrich Schütz, Tomas Luis de Victoria and Martin Shaw.

Soprano Virginia Watje will be soloist for "Song of Mary" by Fischer-Kranz in the second section of the program. Suzanne Prieb Olawsky, soprano, and baritone Bruce Becker, will be soloists on "Angels Hovered 'Round," a French carol arranged by Paul Christiansen. Also a part of the section are works by Alexander Gretchaninoff, Norman Dinerstein and J. S. Bach.

Following an intermission the third segment will include selections by Jerry W. Harris, Ned Rorem, Gastoldi-O. C. Christiansen, and "Missa choralis de angelis" by Johann Nepomuk David which the choir will sing in Latin.

The final portion of the program will include religious selections.

Tickets for the concert are available at a number of downtown locations and may be obtained at the door on the day of the concert. Augie students will be admitted free with their ID's.

Band's Southern Tour a Success

by Jenny Wood

Augustana's campus has been invaded by 63 people talking about grits and yelling "Hi, Y'all!" to everyone they see. Don't worry, though — it's just an after-effect of the Concert Band's Southern Tour.

The band, accompanied by Dr. Leland Lillehaug, Conductor, and Dr. Harold Krueger, director of the Brass Wind Chor, and featured trumpet soloist, left on the trip January 14th, and returned very early February 3rd.

As a study tour, the band also learned as well as had lots of fun. Visits to college campuses, including the U of Oklahoma, North Texas State and Texas Lutheran, were informative to many. The band played 13 concerts in the 20-day span. While on the trip, they were housed in both homes and motels. The high point of the trip by many was the 4-day stay in New Orleans, a very "lively" city.

Although some of the band was plagued by the London Flu, the trip was very much a success. But you'd better have time for a long explanation if you ask a band member about it!

KAUR Air Time Expands

Starting on Feb. 5, KAUR-FM will increase its weekly broadcast time to 80 hours. The station, which began broadcasting last October, is located at 89.1 on the FM dial.

Broadcast hours Monday through Friday will now include a two hour morning show, "The Morning After" from 7:00 to 9:00 a.m. Station manager Jay Werth said the show will be a potpourri of music, news, weather, sports and Augustana campus event announcements.

The Monday-Friday afternoon schedule will begin one hour earlier, at 4:00 p.m. instead of 5:00, with the addition of "Take It Easy," a music show.

On Saturdays the broadcast day will begin at 12:00 noon and run until 1:00 a.m. "Saturday Afternoon Jamboree," a mixed "bag" of good music, will fill the additional hours.

Sunday broadcast hours will now run from 1:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. New Sunday shows will include "In Concert," a classical music program from 1-4 p.m.; "Church World News" from 5:30 to 5:45; "Auditorium Organ," featuring organ music from 6:30 to 7:00; and "New Life," a contemporary religious music and rap show from 7-8:00.

This semester the Mirror is planning to present a weekly column on KAUR to keep up with the programming.

by Dr. Krueger will present a concert Thursday evening.

Winter Carnival Festivities Approaching

The harsh winter season at Augie will be enlivened next week by the Winter Carnival.

The action starts Monday, Feb. 12, with the dogsled races (if there is any snow, but the forecast looks good!). Special interest groups at Augie such as societies or dorms, will form teams of four 4-man relays to pull the traditional female passenger on their sleds.

Potential entrants should contact Mark Stryzewski.

Tuesday the Winter Carnival will shift to Great Bear for a ski party. Wednesday everyone will get to eat somewhere else for a change. Elsie will close the cafeteria and dinner will be served in the dorms.
